THE CITY.

The Election—Results—Accidents—Incidents.

ALL ABOUT IT.

There has not been an election in this city for years, in which, during the after part of the day, the excitement was so great as it was yesterday. Not even the Presidential election elicited so much strong feeling. Betting! during the day, throughout the city (conducted, of course, in gambling institutions), was strongly in favor of the election of SEYMOUR; and there has not been an election, State, County or City on which there has been so many gambling bets. In Wall-street wagers were laid on the result from $100 to $5,000—the bets being generally even in amount, with the exception that the Sayrmour men agree to pay in gold, while all they asked, should they lose, was "Government currency." And that offer was not snapped at by the speculators in elections in Wall-street—about the same percentage was offered freely throughout the City; and when the returns began to come in at the several newspaper offices, showing, as is usual, at an early hour after the closing of the polls majorities in favor of the Opposition, the Seymour men gathered in great numbers, and were exceedingly jubilant. The quiet confidence which they had manifested during the day resulted in the greatest enthusiasm at night, and the feeling among them was common that SEYMOUR would go out of New-York City with 20,000 majority; and that Brooklyn, in proportion would do better. There was great confidence in the power of money potently applied. The day was beautiful—the weather as fine as could be desired for an election day, and the voting was carried on orderly in almost every Ward. The same was true of Brooklyn. The arrests made during the day were chiefly of those who had claimed exemption from the draft on the ground that they were aliens—but few arrests were made for disorderly conduct; and for the sympathizers with SEYMOUR, all went "merry as a marriage bell," until late in the evening, when the returns from the "rural districts" were placed upon the bulletin boards. Soon after that, the friends of SEYMOUR and Compromise discovered that it was quite late, and retired to their homes—or somewhere else. Just previous to their arrival at the above conclusion, many jokes were perpetrated at the expense of prominent Wadsworth and Union men. For instance, from the Tribune office, at about 11 o'clock, numerous newsboys rushed out with what purported to be "extras," shouting "the suicide of HORACE GREELEY," &c. But such jokes were failures, and when, as we have said, the returns from other parts of the State began to come in, the boys could not find any one who was willing to expend a quarter in postage stamps to perpetuate the fun. Nevertheless, among the Union men of the City there was profound sorrow, in consequence of the success of the Woods, as against the patriotic men who had opposed them. As an evidence of the belief in which the main portion of the Seymour vote had been cast in this City, and that a majority of those voting for him were not knowingly disloyal, the cheers, when a Seymour majority was declared, were mainly for GEORGE B. MCCLELLAN. The belief seemed to be that a vote for SEYMOUR was so far an indorsement of Gen. MCCLELLAN. The particulars, however, of the doings and enthusiasm at the various prominent places of meeting are given at length below.

The Republican Headquarters.

The Republican Headquarters at the Central Committee Rooms, Broadway, near Twenty-third-street, had a decidedly blue aspect during the earlier part of last evening. The faithful began to collect about 7 o'clock. First came scattering returns from the Eighteenth Ward, giving small WADSWORTH majorities, and a close vote on the Congressional ticket, with rumors of the election of BURNS over COWAN. An elderly gentleman, with a decided Scotch accent, exposed the inefficiency of some of the canvassers in the Fourth District, Eighteenth Ward, where, by detecting an error in the count, he had discovered sixty-eight votes for COWAN which would have been otherwise lost. The janitor of the room thereupon advised all who could to immediately depart and watch the canvassers,—intimating that many of them—Republicans and all—would bear watching. Mr. CHAS. S. SPRAGUE brought the full canvass of the Fifteenth Ward up, the State ticket, giving 225 majority for SEYMOUR. He said: "Boys, you must face the music. If we're beat you must try it again, for a new leap. I would read the returns, but it ain't pleasant. I haven't got any news from the other wards, and I I don't know as I want any. I guess SEYMOUR will get about 20,000 majority in the city."

At 7¾ o'clock Mr. CHAS. S. SPRAGUE was chosen Chairman, and announced that the Wadsworth ticket was probably defeated by about the same extent in the City as in 1860; and, if rum and treason had the same influence in the State, we were beaten there too. But, he would advise them to stay and face the music, and, if they must go down, go down with flying colors and firing guns until the water bubbled over them. (Applause.) Perhaps the slow progress of the war, the depreciation of paper currency, the stagnation of business, the throwing out of employment of numbers of working men—all charged upon the Republican Administration—might result in defeat. But, a party with such principles as those of the Republicans, must succeed, and in the event of defeat, they would rally until the iron heel of subjugation should grind into the rebel front. (Applause.)

The Anticipated Revolution—The Weather—The Black Louisianans Colored Regiment—An Impromptu—The Dissemination of Unionism in L'Union—Hon. Reverdy Johnson's Visit.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, Oct. 10, 1862.

Important news may be anticipated from the Department of the Gulf. On the afternoon of the 2d of October, Brig.-Gen. Weitzel's Brigade, 4,000 strong, [illegible] up Teche, found up the place. The contest first encountered the opposition.

The weather now is certainly fine, something like that we enjoy at the North, and the effect of a cool breeze felt in the morning and evening, has an invigorating influence, not only upon civilians, but upon the troops, and I think they walk with a firmer step and look with a more defiant eye than was the case in the enervating season of Midsummer. There is a pleasant smile among all our Northern troops for a good bracing frost; nothing of the kind, however, may be anticipated until at least the middle of November—and not till then, shall we have a slight nip of that chilling breath that ere this has destroyed the vegetables, and left in Winter desolation the fields and gardens of the North. In a ride on the suburbs of the city yesterday, I found a house surrounded with orange trees as large as are the apple trees of our New-Jersey orchards. The fruit was hanging so thick that the entire trees, in the bright, flashing sun, seemed covered over with golden balls. These oranges are but little inferior to the best Havanas; indeed, by many they are considered superior, though not so sweet; they appear to be bursting with rich, delicious juice. It may interest your readers to know that this delicious fruit will, if not disturbed, remain upon the trees until December, and constantly improve in taste and flavor. A few years ago, Louisiana had, comparatively speaking, no fruit of this sort, but within about few years oranges and bananas have become quite luxuriant, and are deservedly admired and appreciated for their superior size and flavor. Either the fruit has lately become acclimated, or a new style has been introduced to produce these favorable results.

THE FIRST LOUISIANA COLORED REGIMENT.

On Thursday evening, by invitation, I visited the camp of the First Louisiana Colored Regiment, which is now at the Louisiana race-track. Lieut.-Col. KINSLEY was appointed by Gen. BUTLER to make what might be termed an informal inspection, to see what the regiment wanted before it was moved over the river to enter upon active duty. By some unfortunate accident the Colonel of the regiment had neglected to inform the officers of the expected visit of Col. KINSLEY, and the result was, that he found its camp in the usual disorder that preceded the regular evening parade. A few moments only, however, before the men were in line, then broke into columns of companies and went through inspection. There were ten companies on the ground, numbering ninety-six men each, and on the whole, their conduct could not have been better; in fact, I have seen older white regiments, with more regimental drills, that are not their equal. One thing was very perceptible, there was a uniformity of height that surprised me; I do not believe there was one inch difference between the entire regiment; if there was, the drill sergeant has concealed it by the honest arrangement of the men. I spoke to each one as the inspection proceeded; several were, to my critical eyes, of quite a white appearance, white men, fairly formed, and soldierly in appearance; one of the Captains is evidently of unmixed African blood; in fact, the diversity of color among the men and officers was about the same as characterized the Mexican regiments in Mexico, except that these native volunteers are taller and better made men. It is a fact that these soldiers will take up their position in line, to-morrow, on Tuesday, a line of the railway in connection with the country at large. I take a great deal of interest in this experiment of colored men for soldiers. Already it causes to attract attention in order merely to see the privates and officers passing to and fro, and I have never heard that any of them [illegible] the slightest of offensive demonstration on the part of the whilom white—the educated people of the city. I have never made such demonstrations myself, but

With rare depth of mind and breadth of cultivation, an embodiment of honor and kindness, and strength, no one knew him who will not regret him, and none can to cease mourned by those who knew him well.

It is common to eulogize the dead; we forget their failings, and love to dwell upon their better traits; but where a man's life has been one long eulogium, where, amid all the conflicts and detractions of daily intercourse, his name is never mentioned but with the highest affection and respect, we almost feel that words are useless, and we bow in silence before the majesty of Providence.

Our Duty in Regard to the Rebellion.

LETTER FROM MAJ.-GEN. BARNARD TO COL. J. MILROD MURPHY.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Nov. 1, 1862.

MY DEAR COLONEL: * * * I was very much pleased with your letter, published in the Times. We have, indeed, failed in our "allegiance to Heaven," (to use your own phrase,) and it is because it is so that our cause languishes. Few, indeed, have learned to look up and acknowledge that it is the hand of God that is upon us, and while our cause is just abstractly, it is not just in His sight, unless those who support it do so with proper motives and a right conception of the issues involved.

There is doubtless a question beyond that of "Slavery"—there is a responsibility and a criminality in which "North" and "South" are equally involved; but however that may be, "Slavery" has been the means through which this judgment is upon us, and the "Slave Power" is the real power against which we struggle.

Like all evil principles, it must rule or it must perish. It has perverted the moral sense of the Southern people, and taught them to "call evil good;" and it now seeks to extend its sway over the nation.

"To be let alone" is the last thing it would accept, unless "letting alone" means to be suffered untrammeled to stalk—carrying with it its fetters and its lash—over every State and Territory on this continent; to "be let alone" to open again the accursed Slave-trade, that "the institution" may be speedily spread over the territories of the Union, and new States, sending into Washington their slave-representatives, and Slavery-demoralized "Senators," may be created.

It is because the people of the States which held that "Freedom," and not "Slavery," is the "cornerstone" of the temple of Liberty—alarmed at the arrogance, the demoralization of the Slave Power (which was last returning portions of our country to a state of barbarism) and its aggressiveness, would not "let it alone" to do all these things—that it has risen in rebellion—that it has not scrupled to rend asunder the "country," the nationality to which it belonged. Like Sampson in his blindness, if not like him in the sources of his strength, it would lay hands upon the pillars of the temple, that all might be involved in a common ruin.

We have to prosecute this war to a successful issue or perish! Any compromise with the South which, admitting it back to the Union with liberty to extend the area of Slavery one single foot beyond where it now exists, or which amounts to a separation which shall abandon any of our common territory to its occupation, is to permit this hideous "slave power" again to expand and triumph. And, indeed, any compromise, even though with submission of the South, which is not encompassed with ample provision for speedy emancipation, is dangerous to our future.

We have slumbered fifty years with this thing called "Slavery" among us, and have awakened to find it a wild beast which can exist only by preying upon others.

We are in a death-grapple with it. Shall we say to it, "Wayward brother, depart in peace!"

Eternal contempt and shame to the pusillanimous trifler who, in this hour of his country's agony, should thus mock her situation!

Hoping for your triumph over those who would again bring back New-York as a satellite of the slave power, I remain, Yours truly,

J. G. BARNARD, Brig.-Gen., &c., &c.

THE IMPORTATIONS DECREASING—STATISTICS OF THE LAST MONTH—IMMENSE EXPORTS—OVER $10,000,000 WORTH OF DOMESTIC PRODUCTS EXPORTED FROM NEW-YORK DURING THE PAST FORTNIGHT—THE INTERNAL REVENUE—THE CUSTOM HOUSE REMOVAL.

The long expected falling off in importations of Foreign merchandise is beginning to be apparent. For several months our importations have been very large, even for times of peace, and every month it has been prophesied that they must decrease; notwithstanding, when the monthly returns of the Custom House have been made, the diminution has not been apparent. Those of the month of October, however, show that the receipts for duty were about $1,000,000 less than during the month preceding. The falling off was greater toward the end of the month than at its beginning, the value of the merchandise imported into New-York during the last week of the month being but little greater than during the corresponding week of last year, and being nearly $1,500,000 inferior to that of those imported during the same week of 1860. The figures for the week are as follows:

It may appear to some that this decrease in importations will be disadvantageous to our Government, the receipts for duty being, in consequence, so much less. By us the case is viewed in a different light. In order to buy foreign merchandise to the extent to which we have carried our purchases of the past year, we must either export immense quantities of domestic products, or pay for the goods purchased in specie. In either case we gain no great advantage, because most of the articles we import are such as could be well dispensed with in times of war, if our people saw fit to do so. On the other hand, the articles we export are such as are indispensable to those who purchase them of us. England and France must look to America, when their crops fail, for the grain with which to feed their teeming population. To us they must come to procure the cotton to start their spindles and give employment to their poorer classes. So we see that we import what may be termed luxuries and export necessaries. What we buy does us no particular good, but what we sell is of the highest importance. As our trade with foreign lands has ruled during the year, it has required the entire value of the goods exported to cancel our obligations for those imported, and some $50,000,000 in specie in addition. Had our importations been less, it would have been better for the country, because our exportations continuing the same, as they undoubtedly would, being of an indispensable character, the balance of trade would have been in our favor, and the specie flow would have been toward instead of from us. Our course has been like that of a spendthrift, who invests all his large income in fine dress and luxurious living. We repeat, therefore, our conviction, that it is much better for the importations to be diminished than that they should continue as they have been since last Spring.

The exports from this port during the past fortnight have been unprecedented, amounting to about $6,000,000 during each week; the imports during the last week have been but $2,005,575, as stated above. The week's balance of $3,999,451, exclusive of specie, was therefore in our favor.

The diminished value of importations is undoubtedly due to the deranged state of our currency. It cannot be possible that large sales of foreign merchandise can continue, when in addition to the high price it originally costs in the foreign market, are added the high duties now imposed by our tariff laws and twenty-five or thirty per cent. premium of gold.

The Internal Revenue, in lieu of being a burden, is already yielding a large revenue. From the money which has been by them expended by the operations, it is evident that the exhaustion of our immense resources, which, at the commencement of the war, was so much feared by the friends of the Government, is very remote indeed. At our Sub-Treasury alone, under the very important operation of the law, the receipts during October were $460,468 14. This sum certainly gives promise of a that revenue when the law comes fully into operation.

The removal of the Custom-house is still delayed; no new apartments have been completed, and the inconvenience of occupying two buildings for the business of the port still remains. The delay in preparing the new building seems inexcusable. Sufficient time has already been consumed to almost build a new edifice, and yet the repairs and alterations to the Merchants' Exchange are not yet completed. The alteration of the rotunda of the building has been, as everybody supposed, completed for some time, but now the plans are to be again changed. The railing which has been erected around the desks there does not give satisfaction, it seems, and it has been decreed that it shall be removed, that a new one purchased from Philadelphia. These delays and needless changes consume a great deal of time, cause much inconvenience to importers, and cost a considerable sum of money. The clerks at the old Custom-house have been using common pine-board desks for some time, the furniture of the different departments having been taken to the Exchange for repairs.

The Rebel Pirates.

MEETING OF SHIPOWNERS TO TAKE MEASURES FOR PROTECTION AGAINST THEIR RAVAGES.

A meeting of the prominent shipowners of this City was held at 3½ o'clock P. M., yesterday, at the Merchants' Exchange, in compliance with the following call:

A meeting of shipowners will be held at the Merchants' Exchange, corner of Exchange-place and William-street, on Tuesday, 4th inst., at 3½ o'clock, to take into consideration measures for mutual protection against the destruction of vessel property by privateers, or in case of such destruction payment by a fund provided for that purpose.

A general attendance of those interested is requested.

Capt. Ammen Snow called the meeting to order, and nominated Mr. THOMAS DUNHAM as Chairman. Mr. BENJAMIN DUREUSE was appointed Secretary.

The Chairman having stated the object of the meeting, Capt. Snow said, that inasmuch as many gentlemen who had great interest in the meeting were absent at the polls, and in order to get a full and fair expression of the views of all the shipowners of the City, he would move the appointment of a Committee of Five, to report at some future meeting such plan of action as they may deem adequate for the protection of loyal shipowners against the rebel privateers.

The motion was unanimously adopted, and the Chair appointed the following gentlemen as such Committee: Messrs. Charles H. Marshall, Louis Welsh, Wm. H. Guion, E. E. Morgan, and George W. Kendall.

On motion of Mr. DUREUSE, the Chairman and Capt. Snow were added to the Committee.

The meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the Chairman of the Committee.

Soldier-Printers Killed in Battle.

The Typographical Union of this City has sent forth many of its patriotic members to the aid of the National Government, numbers of whom have died in battle. From every newspaper office a greater or less number of compositors, when the call for help was made, volunteered for the war, proving the loyalty of the craft, by their devotion to their country's cause, and their gallantry by bearing with exactitude from the standard of the nation, in the thickest of the contest.

The names of six soldier-printers who were killed while fighting their country's battles have just reached us: J. D. FINN, M. S. REYNOLDS, L. C. KULL, W. G. SHANNON, JAMES DUNNIGAN and JOHN RYAN, three of whom went from the compositing room of the Times newspaper.

The fellow-members of the Typographical Union have passed resolutions of regard and esteem, rejoicing, however, that their lamented comrades died with their faces to the foe, in the maintenance of the Constitution in the glorious struggle for the supremacy of right.

Supposed Homicide in the Ninth Ward—A Soldier Fatally Stabbed by a Corporal of the Sixty-first Regiment.

About 10½ o'clock Monday night, a dispute occurred between Capt. MAXON, of the 61st Regiment, N. Y. S. V., and a private attached to his command, named JOSEPH MCCAVANAGH, on the corner of West Tenth and West streets, during which Capt. MAXON drew a large jack-knife and stabbed CAVANAGH, inflicting six frightful gashes in his side and breast. An examination of the wounds was made this morning by Dr. Coroner NAUMANN, and it is believed that the wounded man cannot possibly recover. The statement made by CAVANAGH is that the Captain had promised to pay him forty cents a day, from the time of his enlistment, for the purpose of defraying his expenses, which promise he had failed to fulfill; that for the purpose of making some arrangement in regard to this matter, they met at the time and place above indicated. During the interview, CAVANAGH says he told the Captain that his family was suffering and that he must have the money, whereupon that officer became exasperated, and inflicted the wounds in the manner described. The Captain was arrested by Officer LAHEY, and the injured man was conveyed to the City Hospital.

The Thirteenth Regiment.

The Thirteenth Regiment National Guard, Col. CLARKE, have twice served their country during the present war. They have on each occasion gone at but a moment's notice, and have never yet failed to do their whole duty as soldiers, patriots, and citizens. By fire and flood they have been tried and found faithful to their trust.

Their uniforms and other equipage were entirely destroyed by the hard service at the seat of war, and the subsequent shipwreck. To-night, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, they give a Promenade Concert. The Seventh Regiment Band will furnish the music, of which a most tempting programme is published, and we hope every man and woman who can spend the time and afford the expense will be present, for the encouragement of the gallant Thirteenth.

Reconnoissance from Mount Gregory.

Marshal MURRAY is rapidly extending his acquaintance. By the last arrival from New-Orleans he received a note from Major-Gen. BUTLER, introducing to his protection three "clergymen secessionists, rebels and enemies to the United States," who, under the convoy of Capt. FITZPATRICK of Gen. BUTLER'S Staff, are sent to the North. Their names are Rev. Dr. LAMBOIN, Rev. Mr. FURZER and Rev. Mr. GOODRICH. Marshal MURRAY directed them to be kept at the Astor-house, with permission to go about under charge of an officer.

PAINTERS ON THE RAMPAGE.—The Painters of New-York held a meeting yesterday evening at No. 9 Elizabeth-street. P. KEANE occupied the chair, and urged upon those present the necessity of calm and deliberate action upon the subject they met to discuss. They are receiving now from $1 50 to $2 per day. They demand twenty-five cents per hour, and resolved to meet again on Thursday evening next, at No. 182 Bowery, inviting the employers also to attend.

THE ELECTION IN HUDSON COUNTY.—The election in Hudson County, N. J., yesterday, was conducted with a considerable interest, and a much larger vote was cast than was anticipated. At the closing of the polls last evening the indications were that the entire regular Democratic ticket was elected with the exception perhaps of two members of Assembly. At the Second Ward polls in Jersey City a fight occurred in the afternoon, in which some thirty or forty persons were engaged, but the prompt interference of the Police, and the arrest of three of the ringleaders, soon put a stop to it. Another fight

Obituary.

A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE CAPT. SAND, OF BROOKLYN.

While war is claiming its thousands and tens of thousands, it is unnecessary, it is impossible, to make special mention of the good and brave who are its victims; but here and there a hero falls, so honored and so lamented, that even in this day of darkness he cannot be unnoticed. Among the brightest of these stands Capt. HENRY A. SAND, of Brooklyn, L. I.,

TUESDAY, Nov. 4—P. M.

The Stock Exchange shows more decided general firmness to-day than for three or four days past. At the opening of the market, early in the day, the Railways were barely steady, as compared with the last sales of yesterday, but before the First Board broke up the tone was upward, and the advance continued until the close of the Second Board. The demand was especially strong on the Erie, Rock Island, and Michigan Southerns, and also firm and speculative on Illinois Central, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, and Cleveland and Toledo. New-York Central was in request, and the price recovered ¾@1 per cent. of Monday's decline. The Railway mortgages participated in the improved temper of the general market, and the bidding shows an advance on nearly all descriptions as compared with yesterday. There was less done on the Government Stocks, and the 6 per cents of 1881 are a small fraction easier. Tennessees and Missouri 6 per cents are higher by ¼@1 per cent., and Pacific Mail by 2 per cent. No particular cause was assigned for the sudden change of feeling in speculation, beyond the fact that, as the election is about over, the market will soon be relieved of the excitement growing out of it, let the result for Governor of New-York be as it may.

Late in the afternoon in the outside room the business was less spirited than at the Second Board, but without material change in prices, which were, for the most part, quite firm as compared with yesterday. There is a decided increase in the outside interest in the market. The following are about the latest figures:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The election in the City and State of New-York, yesterday, resulted in a complete revolution in the machinery of parties, so far as the State and Congressional tickets are concerned. The Democrats carried the City by over 30,000, Kings County by 5,500, and the State by a majority not yet ascertained in its extent, though there is no present reason to doubt that it will be decided. The Congressional delegation will stand 16 or 19 Democrats, to 18 or 16 Republicans. The Legislature is Republican in the Senate, elected for two years in 1861, and probably Republican in the Assembly.

The returns from Massachusetts are very full, and insure the reflection of Gov. ANDREW by a very large majority. A. H. RICE, the Republican candidate for Congress in the Third District, is defeated by E. P. B. SHERMAN, the People's candidate. SUMNER, Republican, is reelected in the Fourth District.

The returns from New-Jersey are very incomplete as we go to press, but the indications are that the Democrats have swept the State.

Our advices from the Army of the Potomac indicate that the advance is being pushed forward very rapidly, and with the utmost success. Gen. PORTER has occupied Upperville on Monday afternoon, after a spirited engagement of about four hours, in which we had none killed but several wounded. This is only four miles from Ashby's Gap, which the rebels were endeavoring to hold—all the other Gaps this side being in our possession. There was some force of the enemy in front of Snicker's Gap, on the left bank of the Shenandoah, apparently intending to dispute the passage of our forces, but we do not learn that any fighting occurred there. There were rumors that the rebels were again endeavoring to cross into Maryland at Debbsville, but they proved to be entirely unfounded. In fact, we hear from our special correspondents, that the general impression in the army was that all the apparent movements of the enemy were merely feints, to cover the retreat of the main rebel army toward Gordonsville, it being pretty well ascertained that it was on the east side of the Blue Ridge, moving in that direction.

Meantime the news from Gen. SIGEL'S army is of the most significant and important character, leading us to hope that the flank of the enemy has been successfully turned, and that they will not be able to escape without a great and probably a decisive battle. Our cavalry on Monday evening drove the rebels out of Thoroughfare Gap, and Gen. SCHENK'S Division advanced and took possession of it. The other divisions of SIGEL'S force, under STAHL and VAN GERSDORFF were within supporting distance, and our Cavalry also held Buckland Mills, Aldie, and the country between the latter point and the front of Gen. SIGEL'S advance. It has also been ascertained within a day or two that the Fine Division, under Gen. SYKES, is advancing along the Orange and Alexandria Railroad in the direction of Gordonsville.

Gen. SIGEL has been indisposed during the last few days, and he has therefore been unable to move with his command, but he hopes to join it in a few days.

A dispatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer, dated Centreville, Nov. 3, says: "Gen. SICKLES, with PATTERSON'S Brigade, has driven the rebels from Manassas and Bull Run, below Bristow Station, and will, probably, encamp near Warrenton Junction to-night. The railroad to Alexandria has been repaired, the train received, and cars run now as usual to this point. We have no news from Thoroughfare Gap or Aldie this morning. It is the opinion of military men, who are well informed as to the rebels, that they will not fight McCLELLAN at present, but gradually draw him down the Shenandoah Valley, or toward Richmond, at the rate of five to seven miles a day, until they get his forces divided or placed in a disadvantageous position, and then attack him in detail, they first massing their army; should a favorable position not show itself they can make Richmond by the time the seven cold weather sets in, and winter there."

The English prize steamer Anglia, recently captured in Bull Bay, on the coast of South Carolina, arrived at this port last evening, in charge of a prize crew. She brings the unwelcome intelligence of the death of Major-Gen. MITCHEL, on the 30th ult., of yellow fever. It is stated that there are many other cases of that disease prevailing at Port Royal.

We have advices from New-Orleans to the 28th ult., by the arrival at this port of the steamship Cahawba. She brings intelligence that the expedition under Gen. WEITZEL, already spoken of as having gone up the Mississippi to clear out the guerrillas, had commenced operations at Donaldsonville with success, and was expected to extend them to Berwick's Bay.

On Friday last Gen. GILBERT made a reconnoissance down the Nashville Railroad from Louisville. He went as far as Green River Bridge for the purpose of ascertaining the condition of the road, which proved generally. Maj.-Gen. BUCKNER left Louisville to take the field on Saturday.

Three men-of-war are to proceed to sea from this port immediately in search of the pirate Alabama—the steamers Vanderbilt and Dacotah and the ship Jas. The Vanderbilt is expected to leave to-day.

GENERAL NEWS.

HENRY SIDLE, of Dillsburgh, York County, Penn., arrested by order of the War Department, on a charge of discouraging enlistments, was taken to Philadelphia on Monday by Deputy-Marshal SHARRETT, and removed to Fort Delaware.

The Stock Market took a strong turn upward yesterday, especially on the Railway Shares, which had before been declining. The rise is 1@1¼ ⅌ cent. Gold, 131; Exchange, 144.

Flour, Wheat and Corn were in more demand, yesterday, at firmer prices. Cotton was in good request at buoyant rates. Pork and Beef were quiet. Lard was more active. Groceries were less freely dealt in. Hay, Hops, Fish, Fruit, Jute Hemp, Tallow, Linseed and Petroleum Oils, Lead, Tin and Wool were actively sought after. The changes in other branches of trade were unimportant.

The Live Stock Markets are well supplied with beeves and hogs, and but a small number of sheep. Cool, clear weather increases the demand for meats, and all kinds of animals have been readily sold at former or advancing rates. Our reports, gathered at the different yards or marketplaces, show a total of 5,567 bullocks offered for beef during the past week, 4,453 of which were yarded at Forty-fourth-street on Monday and Tuesday. The market was not lively, but the droves were all sold at last week's rates. Salesmen claim that there is a little decline in prices for the same grades, but the improved quality has brought the average of all sales fully up to last week. The best cattle sold at prices equivalent to 9c. for the dressed carcass, to be killed and weighed, and all the really good animals were sold at over 8½c. Some poor oxen and eight thin heifers went as low as 6c. Sheep and Lambs number 8,973, which is full 4,000 less than last week. They have advanced 25c. per head, caused in part by the scarcity and partly by a rise in pelts. Good sheep are worth 4½c., and, if extra fat, 5c. ⅌ lb., live weight. The supply is not equal to the demand. Live hogs are coming in freely—the receipts (31,672) being greater than for any previous week since January. They have sold well at 4½c.@4¾c. ⅌ lb., live weight, for fat corn-fed hogs; 3½c.@4c. for light; and 3½c.@3¾c. for still-fed.

The Election and the War.

Our State election is over. At the hour of writing this paragraph we know nothing positive of the result. But the progress of the canvass has established certain facts which may as well be stated now as by-and-bye.

The heaviest load which the friends of the Government have been compelled to carry through this canvass has been the inactivity and inefficiency of the Administration. We speak from a knowledge of public sentiment in every section of the State, when we say that the failure of the Government to prosecute the war with the vigor, energy and success which the vast resources at its command warranted the country in expecting at its hands, has weighed like an incubus upon the public heart. With every disposition to sustain the Government—with the most profound conviction that the only hope of the country lies in giving it a cordial and effective support—its friends have been unable to give a satisfactory answer to the questions that have come up from every side: Why has the war made so little progress? Why have our splendid armies achieved such slight successes? Why have they lain idle so long, and why have the victories they have won been so utterly barren of decisive results? The war has dragged on for a year and a half. The country has given the Government over a million of men, and all the money they could possibly use; yet we have made scarcely any progress toward crushing the rebellion. The rebel armies still menace the capital. Their privateers defy our navy, and spread increasing terror among our peaceful traders on the seas. What is the use of trying to sustain an Administration which lags so far behind the country, and seems so indifferent and incompetent to the dreadful task committed to its hands?

It has been impossible to lift the public heart out of the terrible despondency which such reflections, fortified by the inexorable logic of facts, have brought upon it. The people of this State are thoroughly loyal to the Union and the Constitution. They desire and demand that this rebellion shall be crushed. They desire no half-way measures—they will tolerate no base and degrading compromise—they will never consent to any peace which involves the disruption of the Union and the overthrow of the Constitution. They demand a vigorous prosecution of the war; and the fact that they have not had it, and that they have seen no fair prospect of getting it, has bred in them a degree of discouragement and despair which has left them an easy prey to the demagogues who are always ready to profit by the calamities of their country. If the Government had given them victories—if it had even shown any just appreciation of the need of victories, and had taken the most ordinary means of exacting them at the hands of its Generals in the field, the people would have rallied as one man to its support. They would have spurned with indignation the base attempts of demagogues to sap their faith in the Administration, and to array them in hostility against it.

What may be the effect of all this upon the popular vote remains to be seen. We trust it will not have been sufficient to withdraw the Empire State from the support of the Government. If it has brought about this calamitous result, the Government has itself mainly to blame. If not, the Government has had a very narrow escape. In either case it will have received a lesson from which, we trust, it will not fail to profit. The wisest men may be misled by success, but that Administration must be weak indeed, which fails to be instructed by adversity. President LINCOLN is represented to have said that he should be greatly discouraged in his attempts to crush the rebellion, if New-York should vote against him. We hope he has said nothing of the kind. We hope still more strongly that he will yield to no such unworthy and unmanly impulse. While an adverse vote may be received as a rebuke, it can never relax the efforts of a ruler fit for his place to save his imperiled country. The vote in this State, as in Pennsylvania and the West, indicates a profound dissatisfaction with the method of the Administration in carrying on this war,—and a peremptory demand for an adoption of one better adapted to the awful emergencies of the case. The President must instantly set about to bend to this demand. Whatever may have been the results of these elections, all the powers of the Government are still in his hands—all the fearful responsibilities of the crisis still rest upon his shoulders. He must not suffer them to depress his courage or enfeeble his energies;—he must the rather meet them with fresh vigor and redoubled resolution. Let the popular verdict just pronounced dispel whatever of hesitation or of timidity may have hampered his movements. He must have more self-confidence,—more of that reliance upon his own strength and resources which, though it might be reckless audacity in a private individual, is only a necessary and becoming courage in the ruler of a mighty nation, in a great and terrible crisis of its fate.

President LINCOLN has now in his hands everything which he can possibly require for the completion of the great work that devolves upon him. He has a more powerful army under his command than any monarch of Europe. The finances of the country are on a safe basis, and he has all the money he will require. He has a navy adequate to any service that may be demanded of it. With these abundant and overflowing resources at his command—sustained and stimulated to the most vigorous efforts by the fervid patriotism of the people, and by every motive which can animate a loyal heart, he can make no excuse to his conscience or his country if he fails to push this war to a speedy and successful end. He must instantly put in motion every arm of the National power. There must be an end of excuses, of apologies and of delays. The country will not longer tolerate half-hearted counsels in the Cabinet, or half-hearted leadership in the field. The fate of the nation must no longer be committed to Generals who, like Essex in the English Revolution, "next to a great defeat, dread a great victory." The Government must no longer be content with defending itself against a rebellion. It must act upon the offensive—and act with the vigor and determination that insure a victory. If the recent elections shall inspire the Administration with this spirit, and prompt it to such action, they will be of more service than results which might have betrayed it into a delusive and fatal confidence in the fruitless policy it has hitherto pursued.

The Result—Latest.

The State of New-York, at the annual election yesterday, elected, from the present complexion of the returns, the entire Democratic State Ticket, headed by HORATIO SEYMOUR for Governor, and from sixteen to eighteen Democratic members to the next Congress, of the whole delegation of thirty-one members. The returns, on this point, are conclusive from the first fifteen districts in the State, numbering from Staten Island to Troy, inclusive, and there is little doubt that the Buffalo District has elected Mr. GANSON over Mr. SPAULDING.

From our present figures, SEYMOUR leads WADSWORTH by 15,400 votes, with twenty-one counties, chiefly Republican, to hear from, which will materially reduce this majority, though we do not believe they can overcome it.

Death of Maj.-Gen. O. M. Mitchel.

The news of the death of Maj.-Gen. O. M. MITCHEL, Commander of the Department of the South, at Beaufort, S. C., will fall upon the country as painfully as the loss of a great battle. To the sense of a heavy calamity, will be added the shock of a sharp surprise. We had not accustomed ourselves to think of him as of one who could die. His very nature was instinct with life. His spirit was ever exultant and soaring, and marked out grand fields of enterprise, which his heart, his brain and hands were restless and untiring to pursue. We cannot realise that this living man is dead.

We need not here recount particularly the story of the fallen hero. The Nation has followed him with affectionate admiration for years, and knows him as one of its most gifted and greatest sons. Born to poverty, but to genius, in Union County, Kentucky, Aug. 28, 1810, ORMSBY MACKNIGHT MITCHEL early gave promise of the ability and eminence that his future so fully realized. At the early age of twelve years, he was acquainted with the rudiments of the Latin and Greek languages, and of mathematics. He was educated at Lebanon, Ohio; commenced life for himself as clerk in a store; afterward procured a cadet's warrant to enter the Military Academy at West Point, earned the money to pay his expenses thither, and reached that National school with two shillings in his pocket, his sole fortune in life.

But what wanted such an intellect, in a sound body, of more? He was now the nation's pupil, and relieved of the care of personal provision, he gave his whole soul to study, and rapidly mounted to the highest places of science, so thoroughly taught in that institution. On graduating in 1829, he was made acting assistant Professor of Mathematics, which post he held for two years. Afterward he laid aside military studies, and went into civil life. He became professor of philosophy, mathematics and astronomy in Cincinnati College in 1834, and continued such for ten years. In 1845 he lectured on astronomy in Cincinnati, and with so much enthusiasm and popular acceptance, that the design of an Observatory was originated, and the people of Cincinnati enabled him to carry it triumphantly through. In 1859, Prof. MITCHEL became director of the Dudley Observatory, at Albany, and filled that office at the time of the breaking out of the rebellion. It is a singular fact that the rebellion found Prof. MITCHEL just closing a work on military science, which had occupied him a twelvemonth, and in which he had proposed enlistment of many of the great leaders of national history. He was about to start for this City to get the volume to print when the shell was broke out. Instead of stopping in New-York, he continued his journey to Washington, tendered his services to the Government which had educated him, and prepared to put in practice what he had been speculating upon.

We know the rest. The President made him a Brigadier-General and sent him to Cincinnati to command the Department of the Ohio, then limited to the State of Ohio. He addressed himself to his work with all the enthusiasm and tremendous energy of his nature. He engineered a series of fortifications around Cincinnati, extending for some miles across on the Kentucky hills, and in a few weeks, at a cost of a little over seven thousand dollars, he had constructed the defences that so lately checked the audacious march of KIRBY SMITH upon Cincinnati. The rebel Generals, POLK and BRAGG, were at the time preparing to seize the State of Kentucky, and by the aid of traitors in the Legislature and about the seat of Government, to annex it to the Southern Confederacy. There was but one Union camp in Kentucky at the time (Dick Robinson,) and a few thousand troops near Louisville on the Indiana side. The rebel citizens along the line of the railroad from Cincinnati to Lexington had forcibly taken Government arms and ammunition from the cars destined for Camp Dick Robinson, and had exacted from the owners of the road the pledge that they would not attempt to send another pound South into Kentucky for the United States Government. Everything was ready for the rebel invasion. POLK and BUCKNER seized Bowling Green and Columbus. KIRBY SMITH approached the heart of the State from toward Cumberland Gap. Kentucky was defenceless, and the hands of the Unionists tied by rebel control of the railroads. It was at this perilous moment that Gen. MITCHEL comprehended, acted and saved the State in a night. He took military possession of the Cincinnati and Lexington Railroad, relieving the owners of their bonds to the rebels, dispatched by night a regiment to Cynthiana, where the rebel power was established on the line of the road, captured the place about daylight, and then in rapid succession seized every other point on the railroads reaching to Lexington and Frankfort, and controlling the entire north and centre of the State! In another day, troops, artillery and ammunition were free to the aid of loyal Kentuckians. They did go—gathered together with unparalleled rapidity by the ever-active Gen. MITCHEL—and the result was, the rebel game was foiled. ZOLLICOFFER turned aside and was finally lost, and his army routed from the State. BUCKNER stopped at Bowling Green, and POLK at Columbus, from which they, too, in turn, had to give way and leave Kentucky free.

We shall not follow Gen. MITCHEL in his campaign South, at the head of a division, nor repeat the story of his brilliant dash into Northern Alabama, and his success in beating back the superior forces of the rebels and holding an extended territory in the heart of the enemy's country quiet and unresisting in his grasp. These achievements form one of the brightest episodes of the war, and illumine with resplendent glory the campaign which has so much of darkness and shame in its impotent conclusion.

Gen. MITCHEL was withdrawn from the field of his successes. Why, it is needless now to ask. After many weeks of weary waiting he was assigned to duty at Beaufort. He left with a weight upon his heart. It was the shadow, no doubt, of his coming death. He felt that this assignment South was in some sense a putting him aside where he could be of no use. Nevertheless he obeyed his Government and went to Beaufort. He had small means of work at hand, but he only redoubled his energies to make the most of what he had. Doubtless he overtasked his fiery spirit; struggling against fearful odds, and burning within with impatient zeal, and burnt without by the fervid heats of an unaccustomed clime, his gaze grew dim that never blinked before in gazing among the stars, and the film of death settled forever upon his earthly vision. The eye that had perused the heavens in rapt glory, measuring the mightiness of God in his systems of worlds, found its last joy in greeting the stars of his country's flag, beneath which and for which his earnest and great life was ebbing away.

The Army of the Potomac Advancing.

The last three days have put an entirely new face on the campaign of the Upper Potomac. Within that time Gens. BURNSIDE and SIGEL have executed a succession of rapid movements, each having the effect of a victory.

The advance of Gen. BURNSIDE across the Potomac and to Lovettsville, some days since, we rightly interpreted at the time to indicate an intended junction with Gen. SIGEL,—the ultimate purpose being an advance into Eastern Virginia ahead of LEE'S army. But in order to make this demonstration successful, it was necessary to close up the main passes through the mountains, and bar up Gen. LEE in the Shenandoah Valley. If LEE had been able to get to the east of the Blue Ridge, and had occupied Manassas again, he would have held the direct railroad routes to Richmond by Fredericksburgh and Gordonsville; and the advance upon Richmond by BURNSIDE would have been frustrated.

Gen. McCLELLAN'S policy has been, therefore, not to move against the rebel front till we were able to throw a force down the east base of the Blue Ridge Mountains and close up all the passes by which LEE could have retreated upon Manassas. To Gens. BURNSIDE and SIGEL this important service was assigned; and the dispatches of yesterday, the day before, and to-day, tell how well and quickly it has been performed. In his march, Gen. BURNSIDE has successively occupied Vestal's, Gregory's, Snicker's and Ashby's Gaps. The last-named is in the rear of LEE'S army on ground less advantageous to the defensive force, is what a few days must determine—if our operations are carried on as rapidly as they have been for the last week.

A victory of Gen. McCLELLAN'S great army over that of Gen. LEE is what the country earnestly desires to have. And it would certainly be immensely to our advantage to have it pretty soon. The Union Army of the Upper Potomac was never so strong as now. It is well clad, well shod, well armed, and, according to all accounts, in high spirits, enthusiastic and confident. A great battle, in which the rebel army shall not only be beaten but broken, is the only thing that will quickly end the war. The loyal people of the Union once more manifest their patient, hopeful heart, by trusting that now, at last, the decisive struggle and victory are at hand.

THE CUNARD COMPANY AND THE REBELLION.—Our Paris correspondent, in noticing the denial made in our columns by Mr. CUNARD of the report that their steamers had ever raised any flag intended to express recognition of the Southern Confederacy, mentions the following reports as current and credited among Americans in England:

1. That they often use in British waters flags that they dare not use in American waters. 2. That the officers of the Company in England, in their relations with the public, make no concealment of their sympathy with the rebellion; and 3. That the Company furnished a sailing master (a Capt. BURGESS or DUNCAN,) to take the Confederate steamer "290" to sea, and that this sailing master found a crew, took the vessel to sea, and delivered her, off the coast of Ireland, to the Confederate Captain who was to command her.

Our correspondent adds that while he cannot guarantee the truth of either of these statements, they are so widely believed that he thinks it for the interest of the Company that they should have an opportunity of correcting them.

We are authorized by the representative of the Cunard Company in this City to say, in regard to these reports, (1.) That they have never used in British waters any other flags than those used in American waters,—that they have flags of but two kinds on each vessel, one British and the other American, and that they have never used, carried or thought of using any other. 2. That every officer of their vessels has received the most explicit orders from the Company never to engage in any discussions, or to express any opinions concerning the rebellion, on either side, on pain of dismissal, and that, so far as he knows, those injunctions are obeyed;—and (3.) that the Company did not furnish a sailing-master to the Confederate steamer, nor have anything whatever to do with her outfit or with supplying her with officers or a crew. The Capt. BURGESS referred to was once in their employ, but had left it nearly a year previous to his engagement with the Confederates.

We make these statements on the authority named, and we believe them to be true. It is not easy certainly to see what interest the Cunard Company could possibly have in taking a position of hostility to the North with which alone they have any business relations.

A CONNECTION.—The World, of yesterday, publishes the following paragraph as having been copied from the TIMES:

"An imbecile administration has given indisputable proof of its incapacity to conduct a great war. Even its own friends are constrained to confess its impotence, and are meditating its displacement by extra constitutional and revolutionary methods, tending to hopeless divisions in the North and general anarchy."

This is the second time the World has imputed this paragraph to us. On the first occasion we denied that it had ever appeared in our columns. We now repeat the denial; and as the election is over we presume the World can no longer have any motive for persisting in a flagrant misrepresentation.

American Vessel Trying to Run the Blockade.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Nov. 3.

The schooner Elmira, CORNELISON, was brought to this port to-night in charge of Prize-Master [illegible] JAMESON, United States steamer Resolute. She cleared from New-York, last June, for Port Royal.

On the 28th of June she was driven out of Bull Bay by the Resolute, while trying to run the blockade, but escaped in consequence of the darkness. She arrived at Port Royal, and, after remaining some time, her captain, John SIMCOCK, of Staten Island, alleging that her cargo, which was miscellaneous, could meet a better sale in New-York, sailed thence.

She was captured Oct. 11, while again trying to enter Bull Bay Channel. The Captain ran her ashore when he found it impossible to escape. She was got off by the assistance of the United States steamer Flag.

Her steward says the Captain told him she left New-York in order to run the blockade.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Nov. 5.

Men conversant with the locality, hold that the rebels cannot mean to make a stand in their supposed position in the rear of Goose Creek, the ground offering no such advantages as they have heretofore invariably insisted upon securing before encountering our troops with the forces of the Union. The first stand they can make, it is said, will be behind their line of defensive works stretching from the Rappahannock to Gordonsville.

THE HARPER'S FERRY INVESTIGATION.

The military commission yesterday closed the investigation of the Harper's Ferry business, and has presented a very full report, which it is expected Secretary STANTON will send home without delay. This report, if our information be correct, entirely exculpates Maj.-Gen. John E. WOOL for the surrender of Harper's Ferry—of time of his retirement by the enemy, and emphatically pronounces the opinion, sustained by evidence of the highest order, that Harper's Ferry had made such a stand as been relieved by a little more activity on the part of Gen. McCLELLAN.

GOV. MORTON, OF INDIANA.

Gov. MORTON, of Indiana, has been here for several days, holding constant interviews with the President, Gen. HALLECK, the Secretary of War, and other members of the Cabinet. The exact nature of his business, which could concern for the length of his interviews with one of the high functionaries named, is, of course, not known; but rumors, more than usually plausible, point to the failing health of Secretary SMITH, of the Interior Department, and to the appointment of Gov. MORTON as his successor. Certain it is that if Mr. SMITH should resign, no selection more in harmony with the wishes of the other members of the Cabinet, and of the Northwest, could be made. Gov. MORTON had a special interview with the President, in relation to the interests of the Indiana soldiers, and goes to-morrow to Harper's Ferry on the same errand.

REBEL MAIL-CARRIERS CAPTURED.

Dr. HANDY, of Fairfax County, Virginia, was sent here to-day from Gen. SIGEL'S headquarters, and committed to the Old Capitol Prison, by order of Gen. DOUBDAY. He is charged with forwarding rebel mails to Richmond, and with furnishing aid and comfort to the enemy.

The following prisoners of war were also sent in from Fairfax Court House to-day: Theodore DEAN, E. R. BOTTOMS, E. J. Montgomery, J. L. Turner, H. Colclin, Fifth Louisiana; Alexander Thompson, Twenty-eighth Virginia; Bernard Bacon, Whitley's Battery; Wm. Agee, Jacob Hite, Fourteenth Louisiana. These prisoners were captured in recent skirmishes in the vicinity of Manassas. They were sent to the Old Capitol Prison.

APPOINTMENT OF MEDICAL EXAMINERS.

The following additional Medical Examiners have been appointed by Commissioner RANKIN:

Dr. Wm. P. Townsend, Goshen, N. Y.
Dr. Andrew Hay, Cornwall, N. Y.
Dr. John Stanchfield, Elmira, N. Y.
Dr. Thos. W. Cooper, Georgetown, Ohio.
Dr. Edward Dickson, Peoria, Ill.
Dr. Benjamin B. Warren, Concord, N. H.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

GEN. ELLET PROMOTED.

The appointment of Brigadier-General has been conferred on Col. ALFRED W. ELLET, who distinguished himself so greatly in the operations of the river fleet on the Mississippi; and he has been authorized to raise a volunteer marine brigade, to serve with the ram fleet, in conjunction with the gunboats on the Western waters. The son of the late Col. CHARLES ELLET, who was wounded in the engagement at Memphis, has been appointed Colonel in the brigade.

A CASE BEFORE THE MILITARY COMMISSION.

The proceedings of the Military Commission in the case of a citizen named SAMUEL LEWIS, are now made public. He was tried at Memphis, charged with smuggling goods through the lines against the orders of the General Commanding, and also of passing through them with the intention of visiting the enemy and giving them information. The Commission found him guilty, being satisfied the prisoner was a spy, and unanimously recommended that he be hanged. The action of the President of the United States upon the proceedings is as follows:

So far as the sentence in the case relates to the accused as a spy, it is disapproved, the Commission not having jurisdiction of the offence. The sentence of death is mitigated to imprisonment for a term of six months, commencing this day, Oct. 28, 1862.

LATER REPORTS FROM HEADQUARTERS.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, BERGVILLE, VA., Nov. 4, Monday Evening—7 o'clock.

The advance of the army of the Potomac up the valley, on the left side of the Blue Ridge, is being pushed forward with all dispatch.

Gen. PLEASANTON occupied Upperville this afternoon, after a spirited engagement with the enemy for about four hours. We had none killed, but several wounded. The rebels left three of their dead on the field.

Upperville is four miles from Ashby's Gap, which the rebels are endeavoring to hold.

Our troops now hold all the Gaps up to Ashby's, with every prospect of having that to-morrow.

There was some force of the enemy to-day in front of Snicker's Gap, on the left bank of the Shenandoah, to dispute our passage at that point.

The rumors of the invasion of Maryland by the way of Downsville are not believed at these headquarters. The last report from the rear shows that these reports are unfounded.

The army is ready and prepared to fight a general battle, when the rebels may see proper to meet them. The army is in better condition than it has ever been, with the exception of the want of more cavalry—a want which is greatly felt.

SPECIAL DISPATCH FROM HARPER'S FERRY.

HARPER'S FERRY, Monday, Oct. 3.

Four rebel prisoners were brought in yesterday, caught spying in this neighborhood.

Two hundred rebel cavalry were seen between Bull Town and Charlestown last night. Our pickets are reported as skirmishing with them.

All the movements of the enemy in this direction were feints.

Advices from the Blue Ridge state that the bulk of the rebel army is on the east side of Blue Ridge.

Several rebel prisoners have been taken. Lieutenant is at Paris—JAMESON just passed through Ashby's Gap, and HILL is close on him.

The general impression among our officers is that the rebels are fast retreating to Gordonsville, and all their movements are only feints to cover this movement. They told the people of Purcellville, several days since, that they had no idea of wintering in the Shenandoah Valley. They are suffering much from sickness and want of shoes and clothing.

Forty of them succeeded in crossing down the east side of Loudon, and getting in our rear on Sunday afternoon, within 2½ miles of Harper's Ferry, and a Pennsylvania regiment on picket managed to capture only one—as the cavalry was not on hand.

Prof. LOWE packed up his balloon and left yesterday for unknown parts, where he will, doubtless, soon give us one of his bird's-eye views of the rebel movements.

It has been beautiful Indian Summer weather for the last three or four days—but this morning is cold and cloudy, denoting rain. The Potomac is still low, but a sudden and great rise is universally expected.

Our troops were never in better condition and spirits—all singing as they, erase into Virginia. Troops are constantly crossing still at Berlin.

HAMILTON.

SPECIAL DISPATCH FROM SNICKERSVILLE.

SNICKERSVILLE, Tuesday, Nov. 4—P. M.

The enemy opposite us, across the mountain, retired yesterday. The force is said to be Longstreet's division.

There has been considerable picket firing, to-day, beyond the Gap; also some shelling of the enemy.

Capt. M. C. PRICE, First Cavalry, was killed, at dawn, in a skirmish near the Shenandoah, side of the Gap, and three privates were wounded. Capt. PRICE leaves a wife and child at Holyoke, Mass.

Gen. McCLELLAN paid us a visit to-day.

BERRYVILLE, Monday, Nov. 3.

Gen. HANCOCK holds Snicker's Gap. The rebels are in view from the crest of Blue Mountain. They are also in considerable force across the Shenandoah. Considerable is going on toward Manassas Plain, and shells are exploding.

The mounted scouts of the enemy occupy the roads in our front.

Everything is advancing in the greatest order. The troops are in high spirits, and the weather and roads are excellent.

REPORTS FROM THOROUGHFARE GAP.

PLEASANT STANTON, Tuesday, Nov. 4—2 P. M.

Information from the front says that our cavalry under Gen. STAHL, last evening, drove the enemy out of Thoroughfare Gap, and the division of Gen. SIGEL advanced and took possession of it. No enemy remained in sight of there last evening at dusk. The other divisions of SIGEL's force, under STAHL and VON STEINWEHR, are well upon the railroad in supporting distance of SIGEL. Our cavalry also now holds Buckland Mills, where recently the rebels had a pretty strong guard. BAYARD's force holds Aldie, and the country between that point and the front of SIGEL's advance.

The rebel force at Gallatin's Station and Warrenton Junction had not been changed up to yesterday morning.

Refugees, who have just come in, report that there is a rebel force of 4,000 infantry and 2,000 cavalry at the town of Warrenton, with some artillery.

AFFAIRS AT MANASSAS JUNCTION.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Information from Manassas Junction says that the Point of Rocks is almost as lively as when it was formerly an important depôt for supplies. Three heavily laden trains arrive and depart daily, crowded with supplies and troops. The news is cheering. The men are in the best spirits and eager to press on.

LEE'S FLANK PROBABLY TURNED.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Nov. 3.

The Washington Star says: "Last night the advance of the Army of the Potomac, under Gens. BURNSIDE, FITZ JOHN PORTER, and others, doubtless bivouacked upon the line of the Alexandria and Winchester Turnpike, from Upperville, three miles in front, or below Ashby's Gap, down to Middletown, a distance of ten miles. Their cavalry must have halted for the night, very near, if not upon, the line of the Manassas Gap Railroad, somewhere between Front Royal and Thoroughfare Gap. The force of STUART, which took up the line of march early yesterday, must have advanced upon the line of the same railroad to Thoroughfare Gap, or nightfall, if not beyond that point, while another division of the army, under SIGEL, at the same time was doubtless advancing in the rear of STUART, and at night, within supporting distance of him. Such we judge, from our knowledge of the country and, &c., to have necessarily been the movements on the eastern side of the Blue Ridge yesterday. The march of Gen. SIGEL's Division yesterday and before, from Alexandria almost to the extreme front, was capitally performed, and reflects great credit. Without fatiguing themselves with a forced march, they accomplished about fourteen miles a day, arriving at their temporary destination in perfect order, with everything in its place, and are already actively engaged in performing the particular service they were evidently sent forward to accomplish. Up to 2:30 P. M. to-day, we have not been able to learn that the enemy had appeared in front of STUART's command in any force. We would have learned the facts had the enemy ventured an attack on our forces in that quarter this morning. We think it now clear that LEE's flank has been turned.

LETTER FROM THE EXTREME ADVANCE.

The Rebels Driven at Every Point—Splendid Practice of our Artillery—The Main Rebel Army Trying to Reach Gordonsville—List of Casualties.

From Our Special Correspondent.

OUR MILE FROM UNION TOWN, VA., AND TWENTY-SIX FROM THE POTOMAC, Monday, 3 o'clock, A. M., Nov. 3, 1862.

Another Sunday fight, and another victory for the National army! All day, yesterday, the booming of artillery resounded through this picturesque and hitherto quiet region, and the clashing of arms indicated that loyalist and traitor had again met in conflict.

Saturday morning, about 9 o'clock, Gen. McCLELLAN's advance, comprising several regiments of cavalry and the Second Artillery Battery M, all under command of Gen. PLEASANTON, broke camp at Purcellsville, and began the onward march. Our road lay through a most beautiful section of country. The road winds through picturesque forests, over hill and through dale, now over a pure and limpid brook which flows down from the mountain, now by some more picturesque stream which meanders through the meadow. The famous "Snicker's Gap" at which the enemy are collected in large numbers, can be seen a short distance to the right. The insignificant village of Snickersville is clustered around the base of the ridge, while the tortuous road, as it winds through the gap, is plainly visible. Still the scouts ahead report no enemy, and we press forward, reaching Philamont at 11½ o'clock. This is a small secesh village of some 150 inhabitants, situated on the Winchester and Alexandria road, about five miles from Snicker's Gap. Just before entering the town we halted, while the skirmishers went forward, ascertaining that some fifty of the enemy's cavalry had been there this morning, but had suddenly disappeared. On entering, pickets were thrown out on all the roads leading from the village. The town was in a terrible scare. On entering one house, I found a girl of seven years old with her head under the bed-clothes, while the mother was nursing a brother of full five years of age in order to keep him quiet. Lieut. KEIM, of Gen. PLEASANTON's Staff, who was appointed Provost-Marshal of the village, immediately arrested all the male citizens of the place and assembled them in front of one of the stores preparatory to taking the oath. Twenty-six comprised the number, consisting of old men, middle-aged, and youths. They answered as their names were called: "I don't like to take the oath of allegiance on Southern soil," responded the first one addressed, a fat, good-natured Methodist of the 'Dr. Boyn school.' " "What is the oath," he further inquired. The Provost-Marshal then proceeded to read the oath to them, remarking that those who took it would receive National protection. "I should think you were premature," spoke up one old man, of full seventy years. "This is a hard thing on us," said a spruce looking young farmer. "You will soon be gone, and the Confederates will come in and seize us if we take the oath," remarked a third, and so they gave their excuses for failing to be loyal one after another. But they proved of no avail. As fast as their names were called off, the significant dash was affixed, which meant confinement and confiscation of homes. "No Sir," replied ROBERT WILSON, in an insolent and defiant manner, which will undoubtedly cost him a few weeks of extra imprisonment. Not one subscribed to the oath. Two who had done so under Gen. SCOTT, were permitted to depart to their homes. The others were started off in a drove toward Berlin. Soon after 12 o'clock three masked guns of the enemy opened on two squadrons of the Eighth Pennsylvania Cavalry, under command of Major KEENAN, which had been thrown out on picket in the direction of Union, three miles away. Gen. PLEASANTON, who was at the right of the village, immediately hastened to the front, taking with him two pieces of the Horse Battery, of which there are only four in the service. The enemy continued firing, and advancing their artillery from one position to another until one gun suddenly opened very near to the village. "Can't we reach that," remarked one of his officers to Gen. PLEASANTON. "Reach it! I guess I can," replied the General, and in less than a moment's time one of the pieces was unlimbered, and a shell tossed in the direction of the rebels. Another, and still another followed. But they all fell short, one setting fire to a meadow, which was soon burned over. By this time, the cavalry on both sides had dismounted, and the sharp quick report of their carbines, indicated that a spirited engagement was taking place. The gallant Major KEENAN (whose horse had been shot and exchanged for another,) seeing that the enemy were pressing on him in large numbers, sent for reinforcements, when the entire regiment Eighth Pennsylvania were sent to his support. The Rebels were now plainly visible scouring through the distant woods and fields, evidently determined on disputing our advance to Union, which Gen. PLEASANTON had been ordered to occupy at all hazards, and the possession of which was necessary to the successful carrying out of Gen. McCLELLAN's programme. About half-past two our cavalry began to fall back, owing to the superiority of the enemy, and a courier was sent to the Ninth Regulars, Capt. BARNES, which was stationed three miles back on the road, ordering them to come up on the gallop, which they did. Reinforcements consisting of a battery and Dodsworth's Brigade of infantry were also hurried forward from BURNSIDE's encampment at Purcellville, whither he had moved up his forces in the course of the day.

As our men fell back, the rebel cavalry followed until within range of our guns, when they were brought to a halt by the most splendid artillery firing of the war. The rebels soon got their guns into a position commanding our own, but in five minutes' time it became too hot for them. They changed to another position, but were in less time driven from that. Finally they galloped over a meadow, our shells thickly firing after them, and planting their guns directly in front of the grove, one mile and a half distant. They had hardly fired a shell, however, before our Rodman 10-pounders so plowed the ground around them as to cause a skedaddle out of sight. This ended the artillery firing for that day, having proved for the twentieth time the superiority of our artillery over that of the rebels. About 3½ o'clock all became quiet, and we supposed the contest had ended for the day. About 5 o'clock, however, the skirmishing was renewed in an orchard on the right, between the dismounted cavalrymen, and continued until dusk, the Sixth Regulars in the meantime having come. During the night the infantry and artillery from Purcellville arrived. In the morning it was found that the enemy had advanced their pickets to a considerable distance on the right. At precisely 10 o'clock our artillery opened upon them and the infantry were thrown forward. The firing was, as on the day previous, most accurate. One caisson was blown fully fifteen feet into the air, causing the rebels around the gun to retreat in double quick. Such accurate shooting the rebels could not stand, and they accordingly commenced falling back; we, at the same time, following up and peppering them in fine style. Thus we continued to drive them from hill to valley for several hours, their artillerists being compelled to abandon every new position as often as it was chosen. Several prisoners were taken, among the number two who rode directly into one of our own regiments, mistaking it for Col. OWENS' Third Virginia Cavalry. I conversed with prisoners from the Third, Fourth and Fifth Virginia Cavalry, proving that we had been fighting Gen. STUART's force. From them as well as refugees I learned that he had been on the ground all day; also that the bulk of the rebel army is on this side of the Blue Ridge, retreating toward Gordonsville. A detachment of the Eighth New-York Cavalry captured some eight horses, with equipments, and quite an amount of officers' clothing. An ambulance driver, of the same regiment, was accidentally killed. The following comprises most of the wounded:

Lieut. Edgel Connolly, Co. B—shot in shoulder.
George W. Wiseman, Co. H, 5th Pennsylvania—right fore arm.
Jacob Allson, Co. F—right arm.
G. C. Keyser—right leg.
Joseph Matter, Co. M—right leg.
Chas. Kearney, Co. E, 5th Pennsylvania.
Henry Lewis Buckman, Co. L—back, badly.
David O'Brien—side.
—— Buckman, Co. L—head.
Sergt. E. B. Burnes, Co. B—slightly in forehead.
David Knight—right arm broken.
George Morris, Co. F, 8th New-York—left arm; wounded while passing a captured carbine over to his Captain; a brave fellow.
Thomas Mills, Co. F—wounded by same ball in the breast.
David Shipple, Co. H—arm and side, probably fatal.
John A. Vanderbeck—right thigh.
Sergt. Jones, Co. L, 6th Regulars—stomach; ball passed through cap-box, belt, pipe and pocket-book.

Several are reported as killed. At the time of writing I am unable to learn their names.

The wounded of the Eighth New-York Cavalry are being kindly cared for by Dr. FERGUSON, in the barn of a Union man.

Occasional firing was kept up in the vicinity of here more or less all day. J.

AFTER THE ALABAMA.

THREE MEN-OF-WAR ORDERED TO SEA FROM BERE.

Orders have been received at the Brooklyn Navy-yard to dispatch to sea at once three men-of-war, of which the Vanderbilt, as already reported, is one. The others are the U. S. steamer Dacotah, one of the vessels of the regular navy, and the ship Ino, a craft pretty heavily armed. Yesterday a crew of sailors and a squad of marines were sent on board the Vanderbilt. The Dacotah was rapidly finished and hauled out to the buoy ready to depart. The Ino is already off the Battery, has her powder on board, and will loose sail probably to-day. Other vessels, chiefly steam corvettes and gunboats, are preparing speedily elsewhere. A troop of marines was sent on to Portsmouth on Saturday for a man-of-war ready there. The destination of these vessels is supposed to be the ocean haunts of the Alabama, and for that reason we do not print particulars of them. The Dacotah and Vanderbilt will leave to-day, if possible. In a few days other ships at this station will be reported ready, so that it is quite likely the Alabama will soon be captured. There will be in the stream, off the Navy-yard, to-day four prizes, all recently captured. It is also believed that five or six fast and well-armed gunboats have been, or are to be, detached from the South Atlantic and West India squadrons to look after the "bold privateer."

A Negro Lynched and Burned.

BALTIMORE, Monday, Nov. 3.

The American has a letter from Dalton, Caroline County, in this State, giving an account of the the lynching of a negro under arrest for the outrage and murder of a little girl, daughter of EDGAR PLUMMER, on Saturday night. A large number of excited people came into town, surrounded the jail, forced open the doors, took the prisoner and hung him. While suspended, fifteen bullets perforated his body. He was cut down and his throat cut by the infuriated mob. The body was dragged through the streets, and finally taken in front of the negro church, where it was cut to pieces and burned.

Notes on Chronic Diseases.

BY DR. A. WOLF, NO. 832 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

No. 3.—NEURALGIA.

Having described Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, I shall now enter upon a consideration of the next connecting link in the long chain of Chronic Diseases, Neuralgia. This consists in a pain affecting any of the sensitive nerves in some part of their course; and it may be of an acute, darting, jumping, twinging character; or it may be an aching, numbing sensation. When the thighs or lower extremities are attacked by Neuralgia, it is called Sciatica, and when it affects the face it is termed Tic Doloreux. But it may affect any part of the system—the eyeball, for example, and the left side—and the latter is of common occurrence in females.

Neuralgia is a merely functional disease, originating in some local cause, such as cold, or in some constitutional irritation, such as indigestion. It is often mistaken for rheumatism, which it resembles in many points; but, unlike rheumatism, its distinguishing characteristic is general debility. Some few cases of neuralgia depend on organic disease, such as an inflamed state of the nerve, of disease in some remote part of the nervous system, or again, upon the nerve being tightly pressed upon, or irritated by some tumor or excrescence of bony growth. But this latter is comparatively rare.

My treatment of neuralgia cannot disappoint the invalid, for it has been eminently successful, and has been adopted by many other well-known physicians in this City. I shall be at all times ready to impart to the profession and to the public my views upon this important branch of my specialty—Chronic Diseases.

My next communication will be on Epilepsy, or Falling Sickness.

U "Five-Twenty" Year S
SIX PER CENT.
BONDS,
CONSTANTLY ON HAND AND
FOR SALE AT PAR.
INTEREST TO COMMENCE FROM DATE OF PURCHASE.

This Investment (from Bonds issued at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum) is made Interest and Principal Gold Coin, Which at the present rate of premium on Gold is equivalent to Eleven Per Cent. PER ANNUM.

They are the CHEAPEST GOVERNMENT SECURITY now in the MARKET, and pay the largest interest on their cost.

They are destined to become the MOST KNOWN, MOST POPULAR AND MOST AVAILABLE of all the Bonds of the Government.

They are the bonds upon which the government now relies, through the confidence and patriotism of the people, for continued financial support.

Every thing has been done to facilitate investment in them and make them more accessible to the public, and every dollar invested in them through us contributes to the direct and immediate support of the government.

Have on hand for immediate delivery, the
NEW TWENTY-YEAR SIX PER CENT. BONDS

Interest will commence from date of Subscription, and is payable in Gold at the Mint or any Sub-Treasury or Depository of the United States on the first days of May and November of each year. At the present premium on Gold, the Bonds yield about eight per cent. per annum. The ample provision made by Custom Duties, Excise Revenue and Internal Revenue, for the payment of Interest and liquidation of the Principal, makes an investment in this loan safe, profitable and available at all times.

This being the permanent Loan into which the Legal Tender Notes are convertible, it will become the principal Security upon which the Government will borrow money for Trust Funds, the surplus funds of capitalists, as well as the earnings of the industrial classes.

THE ELECTION IN NEW-YORK.

proved to be that a vote the Canvass was so far as ascertained of Gen. Wadsworth. The particulars, however, of the change and confusion at the various polling places of canvass we give at length below.

The Republican Headquarters.

The Republican Headquarters at the Central Congress House, Broadway, near Twenty-third-street, had a decidedly blue aspect during the earlier part of the evening. The faithful began to collect about 7 o'clock. First came scattering returns from the Eighteenth Ward, giving small Wadsworth majorities, and a close vote on the Congressional ticket, with rumors of the election of Brooks over Cowles. An elderly gentleman, with a decided Scotch accent, expected the inaugurating of some of the canvassers in the Fourth District, Eighteenth Ward, where, by detecting an error in the count, he had discovered sixty-eight votes for Cowles which would have been otherwise lost. The janitor of the room thereupon advised all who could immediately depart and watch the canvassers, intimating that many of them—Republicans and all—would bear watching. Mr. Chas. A. Stewart brought the full returns of the Fifteenth Ward on the State ticket, giving the majority for Seymour. He said: "Boys, you must face the music. If we've lost you must by it again, for a new leap. I would wish the returns, but it isn't pleasant. I haven't got my money from the other works, and I don't know as I must care. I guess Seymour will get about 10,000 majority in the city."

At 12½ o'clock Mr. Chas. S. Spencer was chosen Chairman, and announced that the Wadsworth ticket was probably defeated by about the same extent in the City of in 1860; but, if true and honest had the same influence in the State, we were beaten there too. But, he would advise them to stay and face the music, and, if they must go down, go down with flying colors and fighting manfully until the water washed over them. [Applause.] Perhaps the sheer progress of the year, the depreciation of paper currency, the stagnation of business, the throwing out of employment of numbers of working men—all charged upon the Republican Administration—might result in defeat. But, a party with such principles as those of the Republicans, must succeed, and in the event of defeat, they would rally until the iron heel of subjugation should grind into the rebel front. [Applause.]

Returns from the Twenty-first Ward—another was a Seymour ward—showed 1,700 for Seymour to 1,500 for Wadsworth, a Seymour majority of 1,182. This Ward gave a majority of 178 last year for the Union ticket in 1860.

Mr. Spencer was met with numerous common returns from scattered districts in favor of Seymour, saying he hoped they would cheer whenever they got the slightest chance. [Laughter.] As to the Twentieth and Twenty-first Wards, river districts, the majorities of which were overwhelming for Seymour, he said that as it was always cashed before the day, there was no come cause for daylight for the Wadsworth ticket in those districts. (Laughter.) They were more honorable in defeat than the Seymourites in victory. (Applause.) On reading the overwhelming Seymour majority in the Eighteenth Ward, he remarked that in the 18th Ward gave a majority of two thousand one hundred and twelve. In announcing the probable election of James Brooks, Mr. Spencer said our Irish fellow-citizens being smitten on one cheek by Brooks, had turned the other also. [Laughter.] He felt sanguine, however, that we would not have to be overcome the District.

A Voice—Have you heard from Kings? [Laughter.]

Mr. Spencer said he was not responsible for the following, "Sam. Wood's majority, 4, 11, 44. [Great laughter.]

A telegraphic dispatch gave Seymour six thousand majority in five Wards, and said that Sam. Wood is elected. Mr. Spencer called for three hearty groans, which were given with a will.

A Voice—How about Fernando?"

Mr. Spencer—Capt. Dove knows he had chance to hear what Fernando's Assembly Rotten Borough was, and Fernando is the best. [Laughter.] If we are beaten we will not surrender as long as we have a square inch of ground to stand upon, and then we'll fight. [Great laughter and applause.] Whatever happens, Abraham Lincoln will be in power over your votes. [Applause.]

Regarding the Wadsworth majorities in the Fifteenth Ward, Mr. Spencer said he had confidence that the country districts might save us yet. He understood that the Democratic copperheads, at their headquarters in the meantime, were swelling their crests, and their hoarse voices were poisoning the air with a perfect bilgewater, but we might smash 'em yet. [Applause and laughter.]

R. R. Spencer reminded the audience of the words of Gen. Wadsworth, at Cooper Institute, to wait until they heard from the mountains of St. Lawrence County, and from the young lion of the West. [Applause.]

Mr. Spencer read a dispatch dated 6:30 P. M., giving Seymour 14,000 majority in twelve Wards. He thought it more some little difference what Wards they were. He was waiting anxiously the first gun from the country, where men read and write—[great laughter]—where there are churches and schools. Among that great school-house politics. [Applause.]

A Voice—How about military-offices? [Applause and laughter.]

The Twentieth Ward was announced as giving 4,000 Seymour majority. (Phew-ew-ew.) This Ward gave 1,800 majority for Sutton in 1856. This was accounted for by a citizen of the Ward by the statement that every third house in the Ward is a rum-hole. [Laughter.] If they were to have their Bull Run now, they desired that God that they had Washington to fall back on. [Applause.] They could not see the results, but they were fearfully handled by the triumphant party. [Applause.]

The sentiment becoming impatient, Mr. Spencer said they were welcome to keep up their courage, or enthusiasm passed to any way—the news would come fast enough. [Laughter.]

Voice—A song, a song.

Mr. Spencer—Well, if we must have a funeral, let's have an Irish wake. [Great laughter.] Is Joe Hoxie in the room? [Renewed laughter.]

After various good-natured occupations, the audience called upon a song, and especially upon Mr. Hollenbeck. Mr. Spencer assured them that they would have a regular funeral if they would favor them each up to the stand. [Laughter.]

Mr. Hollenbeck, being compelled to do service at the table, came to the stand and said that he had the music drawn out of him by the fact that his District, the Twenty-first of the Twelfth Ward, a strong Irish District, had given the Democracy 800 votes to Joe Hoxie as for Governor. If, however, he could give them any consolation by singing, he would gladly do so. He would say, however, that, as a Republican, he was within the chestnut determined to never surrender. [Applause.] He concluded by singing in irremarkably indifferent tones the song "It is sweet, for one country, to die."

The next announcements were "Boston gives 1,000 majority against Andrew (oh! oh! oh!) and forty-five towns gives Andrew 6,000 majority." (Great applause.)

"Tennessee Wood elected by 4,000 majority"—(oh! oh! oh! and groans.)

"Brooklyn Wards give Seymour 15,000 majority—(oh! oh! oh!) and groans.)

Mr. Spencer said he was sure the Republicans will go home satisfied until he is whipped, and that if we are whipped every state will be ready to get up in the morning and fight the battle of liberty over again (applause.) The returns seem to indicate that one national will be left upon the watch tower of liberty—Charles Sumner is elected. [applause.]

At the suggestion of Mr. Spencer, the audience joined in singing "Old John Brown's Song," with a tremendous chorus.

Mr. Spencer said, that if a live copperhead should come anything and crawling and dragging his slimy form up these stairs from below, the Democratic Headquarters)—[great laughter and applause]—he would make up his mind that they were not quite dead yet. [Applause.] He was reminded of the lines:

"Rebel! rebel! hatch once begun,
Remember from bleeding sire to son,
Though close lost is ever won."

[Applause.]

Mr. Spencer drew an eloquent contrast between the good-natured and manly disposition manifested by the Union men in these trying hours and the Southern secession style of accepting defeat in an election. He—or rather, he said, that—although Union men, they never could be conquered—[applause]—that they stood cheerful, defiant, peaceful and confident; that in the end the right would conquer, and that they would go home as proud and confident as when they went to the election in the morning. [Applause.]

Mr. Spencer was called for, and made an stirring address, compelling courage and hope to the faithful.

Mr. Spencer next read scattered returns from Westchester, Kinsing, giving small majorities for Wadsworth. Kinsing, said he, is in the county of Chemung.

A Voice—Where's that? (Laughter, and a voice, to put him out.)

Mr. Spencer read scattering returns from the Seventh (green) Ward, amid much laughter, a statement that about 200 persons are assembled at the headquarters of the Republicans.

Mr. Spencer read, amid the wildest demonstrations of applause, the order in Superintendent Kennedy to release those arrested for illegal voting to the receiving military station, there to await the orders of the War Department. He said that if the Democratic Safety Committee dare to inaugurate rebellion at the North, they would find that it would be "Lay on, lay on, lay on, and damned be he who first cries hold, enough!" [Great applause.]

Twenty-seven towns in Southern New-York give Seymour a majority of 7,000. (Thunders of applause.) Mr. Spencer said he was sorry for the result, but he hoped that the Democratic opposition to be elected in the Twenty-eighth District. [Applause.] Kalbfleisch and Sutton were elected in Brooklyn. (Oh! oh! oh! and groans.)

The evening passed off with great spirit, the Chairman, who throughout the evening, A Voice—supplied a number of extra verses, which were

[illegible]

While waiting for further returns the audience amused themselves calling upon "Charley" (Seymour) to "Speak up, speak up," ("I will, when the witnesses give it to," said Charley,) to "Give us more returns," "do not hurry up," and to the various other phrases. He at length announced that full returns from twenty-one Wards gave Seymour 20,000. [Oh! oh, oh.]

A Voice—"That's not so bad."

Mr. Spencer—If the Twenty-second Ward does no worse than she did last year we shall only be beaten 20,000 in the City. That's not so bad after all. They beat us 30,000 in 1860.

These proceedings were continued until a late hour, Mr. Spencer delivering the unwelcome items of intelligence with ready bite, and making the most of such crumbs of comfort as were occasionally forthcoming.

Tammany Hall Abloaze.

FURDY, THE WAR-HORSE, PRESIDES—SPEECHES BY THE "HORSE," HON. DANIEL E. SICKLES, PETER MCGWYNEY, ALDERMAN BERRY, CAPT. EYNDERS, A GERMAN FELLOW-CITIZEN, AND JOHN VAN BUREN.

Tammany Hall made an immense resurrection last night, on the supposed success of Horatio Seymour in the State, and his certainly large majority in the City and county of New-York. At 8 o'clock the "enterprising" began to assemble in front of the Wigwam and at seven the doors of the upper hall were thrown open to the surging multitude who, with cheers, cat-calls, howls of every varied pitch and tone, and hurrahs for "Seymour and the Democratic ticket," poured irresistibly in, until every corner was densely crammed and packed with an eager mass of humanity.

The venerable "War-Horse," Elijah F. Purdy, was vociferously called upon to preside, and Alderman Farley made Secretary for the occasion. The crowd was jubilant and demonstrative, and the "Horse," as he was familiarly designated by his admirers, was long in obtaining a hearing. He commenced by reading a series of returns from the middle Wards, all favorable to Seymour and the Democratic Congressional Candidates. These were greeted with thunders of applause, amid which cries for "Fernando!" and "Fernandez," the Irish, probably, for Fernando, rung from the body of the house. The reporters, with great peril to themselves, maintained their position, regardless of consequences, and were rewarded with oratory from the most original fountains. Mr. Purdy was in an agony to know what had become of Grizzly's 300,000 men. "They're sick!" "They couldn't come." "They ain't born yet," &c., &c., responded to his inquiries. The War-Horse, nothing daunted, proceeded to read growing returns from "the glorious Sixth," "the unconquerable Seventh," and the immortal Eleventh &c., &c., and was rewarded with hearty of "Go it, old boy!" (significant,) and "You are a horse, you can't deceive us!" The news, he said, was good for all good men, and if it couldn't be called all "timmyeratic," was not "niggercratic," anyhow. ("How about Bim?") Thus accosted, the "old boy" declared that Fernando was overwhelmingly elected, and so was "brother Bim"—Duffy was nowhere. (Groans for Duffy, and cheers Woos and Corcoran.) Shouts of "Delavan! Delavan!" summoned that gentleman to the platform.

With inconceivable exertion, the portly form of the worthy City Inspector was hoisted to the platform, where he went on to congratulate the Democracy upon the grand achievements of the day. He expressed the belief that when all the returns should come in, the "traitors" present would feel very good. In the course of his remarks, a tribute of cheers was dispensed to the names of Douglas, and the "nigger" suffered some in the way of groaning. The birth of a negro-baby in the Park was feelingly alluded to as the accession of the only recruit yet received by the "Greeley Brigade."

The old War-Horse read some further returns, amid a very "cantankerous" jubilation. The celebrated "Kerrigan"—the minstrel of Democracy—was then hoisted to the stand, whence he emitted a very doleful ditty about "a Kansas baby" that "died before 'twas weaned." This fact in Natural history excited vivid applause. Other fanning returns interspersed this performance, until yells for "Woos!" "Woos!" assailed the aforesaid Minnesinger out, and the City Hall bell began to ring incessantly.

"Rivers!" "Rivers!" was now the cry—

"And then arose so wild a yell
Within that dark and narrow dell,
As all the fiends from Heaven that fell
Had pealed the banner cry of h—ll."

The indomitable Captain made his appearance on the instant, and proceeded in a characteristic strain to inform and delight his auditory with occasional sprinklings of Seymour returns of gigantic proportions, until recommendations to take off his handsome chief and turn down his shirt collar cured the Captain, and he left the Asylum.

After another song by Mr. Kerrigan, Mr. John Van Buren was announced as present in the Hall, and was with great exertion placed upon the stand. Here the reporters' table disappeared, and chaos came again. Prince Jess glorified exceedingly in the result, and said that the Western States had dipped out Niagara and were pouring it into the ballot-boxes.

Most deafening enthusiasm, with continued returns for Seymour followed every sentence of this discourse, and, as it closed, the concourse dispersed into the streets, where it made night hideous in the vicinity of all the newspaper offices until dawn ended the chapter.

At Mozart Hall.

THE MOZARTERS JUBILANT—SPEECH OF FERNANDO WOOD—HE LAYS DOWN THE SEYMOURITE PROGRAMME OF THE HOUR.

Mozart Hall was in high glee last evening. The triumph of the combined forces of Tammany and Mozart was claimed as the triumph of Mozart exclusively, and the boys mingled their shouts of rejoicing with expressions of contempt for their ancient but imbecile ally. Have we not elected the entire Wood family to Congress, said they, and will they not be able hereafter to dictate terms not only to Fernando Lincoln, but to all the Sachems of the Wigwam?

If there was a warrior from old Tammany present, he did not dare to dispute the proposition, and his scalp would not be safe if he had. At an early hour the hall was crowded with Wood men, anxious to hear the returns from the various Wards and particularly from the Congressional Districts of "Fernando" and "Ben." The chairman read of the returns as they came in, and it must be admitted that they were generally of a character to inspire the enthusiasm of the "hard-fisted Democracy." They were accordingly greeted with appropriate applause, and thus the evening whiled away until about 9 o'clock, when Judge Dean entered the room, and was immediately called upon for a speech. He very reluctantly mounted the stand, and, after quiet was restored, said he was very hoarse, for he had just been speaking at the Young Men's Democratic Headquarters, where the victory was organized that had now been won. He was confident that Seymour had carried the State, but whether he had or not, they had formed the nucleus of a party that would sweep the country in 1864 and restore the Union. (Cheers.) Abolitionism at the North and Secessionism at the South would be buried in one grave in 1864. (Applause.) In addition to that they had abolished Fort Lafayette. They would hear no more, in a loyal city like New-York, of men being taken away and incarcerated without a hearing. (Renewed applause.) He concluded by saying that he hoped that Cassius M. Clay, instead of coming up here to abuse Mr. O'Gorman, and that Fremont, instead of vapordonting around the country, would now be put in command of Gen. Scott's black battalion, and go forth to take Richmond. (Great applause.) All who were in favor of that move would say "aye." There was a unanimous "aye," and Judge Dean left the platform.

At the close of Judge Dean's remarks there were calls for a great variety of persons, and at last one Mr. McGwyney mounted the stand and made himself the laughing week of the audience for nearly an hour, when, suddenly a great commotion was visible, and loud cheers were heard at the farther end of the hall, and amidst the wildest enthusiasm of the audience the Great Fernando was ushered up to the desk and into the platform. After the cheering had subsided he spoke substantially as follows:

Gentlemen: I suppose I will announce what most of you already know when I say that New-York has given Horatio Seymour a majority between 25,000 and 30,000. (Applause. A Voice—"How's Ben?") In the Fourth Congressional District my brother Benjamin has a majority of about 4,000. (Three cheers for Ben Wood. A Voice—"How's yourself—how's Duffy?") In the Fifth Congressional District the returns, as I have them from the General Superintendent's office, give me 4,300 majority. (Great cheering—"Fernando forever.") I will also state that we have elected every Congressman in the City. (Cheers.) I will also say further that we have carried every Congressional District this side of Albany, including that city. (Applause.) And I hope and believe we have elected that glorious man, Mozart Seymour. (Three cheers for Seymour.) And now, my friends, this grand result is not merely the result of an election; there is more in this than in the ordinary results of an election. It is a great and powerful and constitutional change in public sentiment—a change which means that the people repudiate and condemn the corruptions and fanaticism of the present Administration. This is what I have contended for in every speech that I have made during the canvass. Since the election of 1860, when Thos. Jefferson was elected President of these United States, there have been no such important consequences as will result from this election. It settles the great question whether this country is to be left in the hands of Republican rulers, (A Voice—"Damn them,") or whether, through the action of the Democratic Party, the Union and happiness of our beloved land is to be restored. It means that this Union is to be restored only by a conservative, constitutional course. It means to continue the Administration for swerving from the Constitution. It means that the party in power is fanatical, imbecile and corrupt. It means that if we are to prosecute this war, we are to carry the sword in one hand, while we carry the sword in the other. Therefore it is that I say that no election since 1860 has been so important in its results as this.

The speaker here dwelt at some length upon the calamities of the present war, the loss of life, expenditure of treasure, &c.

In conclusion, he said he was not disposed to boast over his fallen foes. Two years ago the people elected Mr. Lincoln President in a constitutional manner. The rebellion immediately followed. We had given the President all the men and money he asked for to suppress it. We had now fought this battle for eighteen months, and had seen our best blood perish by the criminal errors of those in power. We had decided to-day that they had abused that power. As he had said in a former speech, we want a change of measures or a change of men. We will have such a change of policy or we will follow up this revolution, commenced to-day, by another that will hurl them from the places they have usurped. He thought he could discern a hope, he could see a peace, could see a return of those Southern States now arrayed against us, could see that the South would lay down their arms, at least long enough for a Convention to be held, which should arrange the difficulty in a satisfactory manner, guaranteeing to every section of the Union their Constitutional and just rights. If this is not done, there would be a still further splitting up of the States—New-England going by herself; New-York by herself, and the Western States by themselves, that Therefore he would say that it was made too much that the Democratic Party should be restored to power. The Union will be restored, prosperity will come back to us, and we will once more be able to say that we are citizens of the United States of America. (Prolonged applause.) At the close of his speech, Mr. Wood immediately left the Hall, and the meeting directly thereafter adjourned.

The Newspaper Offices.

GREAT CROWDS—CHEERS—GROANS—SHOUTS—SIGNIFICANT.

Printing House-square was the great centre of attraction during the evening. The streaming crowds of merchants, clerks, mechanics, laborers, and sewing women, had stopped a moment, on their up-town journey, to look with incredulous eyes at the staring capitals upon the World Bulletin, which announced—of course incorrectly—a great Democratic majority in Massachusetts, before even the canvassers there had time to collect, much less to count the votes—but the mass of the streaming populace waited to eat a hasty evening meal before returning to expend their enthusiasm over victory or exhaust their patience over defeat, when the full and correct returns should be displayed upon the newspaper bulletins. At 7 o'clock the space in front of the Times Office was beginning to be rapidly filled with the eager faces of the expectant citizens, and half an hour later, an impatient, eager, but really orderly crowd was assembled. The City returns came in somewhat more slowly than usual, but at 7½ o'clock the figures began to be pasted upon the bulletin board, and the cheers and groans of the Democratic majorities from the City came in first, and drew from the Submissionist portion of the throng repeated cheers. The Wadsworth men maintained a cheerful silence, declaring that they expected nothing from the City, but much from the country. The industrious clerks in the Times newspaper office continued every few minutes to paste up—the crowd meanwhile stretching their necks and straining eyes to catch sight of the figures—the Seymour majorities of the City Wards, and groans and cheers followed the appearance of the returns. As every Ward began to appear strongly on the wrong side, the Wadsworth men, some of them, grew disheartened, but others clung to their predictions of a fully counter-balancing county vote. Bets began to be offered. John Mountjoy, hedging, so it was said, pressed heavy sums upon Seymour, and found some takers, but the majority preferred to wait for fuller returns before committing themselves and their money. The interest in the result of the contest between Wadsworth and Seymour was manifested in the throng. Cheers for "Fernando" and for "Ben" were responded to with more or less enthusiasm, and whoever ventured to dissent from the general opinion was in imminent danger of harsh treatment. The loyal, Union-loving man soon turned away in disgust from the taunting, jeering, over-confident, semi-secession (or full secession) multitude who blocked up Nassau and Fulton streets. Groans for "Old Abraham," for the "nigger," for emancipation, and for Wadsworth furnished the staple of amusement and enthusiasm for the crowd.

The Herald office was surrounded by a similar crowd. Ben Wood, Fernando Wood, James Brooks (though some could not forget the old Know-Nothingism,) Seymour, and Charles received frequent cheers. The war and the President had never a word of applause. Though few dared to propose an ovation to Jeff. Davis, there were not wanting many to rejoice over the triumph of Dixie. The political bearing of the thinking throng hereabouts was very evident—uniformly secesh.

The newspaper square continued thronged until a late hour of the night, cheers and groans, hissing and clapping of hands, hurrahs and indignant cries alternating. The figures looked bad for the Wadsworth men, but they went home expecting better things from the loyal Union-loving counties beyond King's Bridge.

A few fights diversified the entertainment, but the worst of them terminated as soon as there began to be any probability of serious consequences. Taking it all in all, the impatient citizens behaved themselves with becoming propriety, the supposed victors contenting themselves with defiant cries, and the supposed vanquished disregarding the taunts and approbrious epithets.

INCIDENTS AND ACCIDENTS.

Serious Disturbance in the Twenty-first Precinct—The Police Assaulted with Knives and Brickbats—Several Officers Severely Injured.

Just previous to the closing of the polls, a serious disturbance occurred in the vicinity of the polls in Third-avenue, near Thirty-fifth-street, during which six Policemen, of the Twenty-first Precinct, were assailed with stones, clubs, knives, &c., and some of them were severely injured in the melée. The facts, so far as they could be gathered, are as follows: A party of Irishmen, numbering about one hundred, led on by an energetic son of the Emerald Isle named James O'Brien, undertook to control the polls, and to dictate to the voters who wished to deposit their ballots at the polls in that neighborhood. When the Police interfered, the latter found themselves opposed by a large body of men, who in a short time gathered together about a cart-load of stones, carried them to the top of a four-story building in Third-avenue, not far distant from the place where the polls were held, and then commenced to throw the missiles, not only upon the officers, but upon all citizens who were passing along the street. Capt. Greer, with a force of six or eight men, undertook to arrest the guilty parties, when the combatants showed fight, and soon a general war was in progress. When the Police attempted to take possession of the cart-load of stones upon the roof, the Irishmen attacked them with stones, knives and clubs. During the combat, the Captain and five or six of his men were cut and bruised, some of them quite severely though it is thought none are in a dangerous condition. James O'Brien the principal in this disgraceful affray, made his escape, but two of his brothers, named John and Patrick O'Brien, were taken into custody, and also a man named William Tait, and six or eight others, whose names are not known, but whom the Police know to have been ringleaders in the attack which was made upon them.

Arrests for Illegal Voting—Admirable Arrangements of the Police Department to Preserve the Peace at the Polls.

The Board of Police Commissioners, and Superintendent Kennedy, are certainly entitled to great credit for the judicious manner in which they have, by their arrangements, preserved the public peace, and thereby enabled the honest voters of New-York to deposit their votes, without being interfered with by that gang of paid rowdies who have been in the habit, of late years, of obstructing the polls, for the purpose of creating disturbance, and thus preventing the legal voters of the City from the free exercise of the right of suffrage. No election in this City for years past has passed off so quietly, all things considered, as the one of yesterday. There were a number of arrests made in some of the wards, on the ground that those offering their votes had heretofore taken their oaths before the Commissioners of the Draft that they were aliens, and therefore, by law, were exempt from military duty.

The following persons were taken into custody by the Police for attempting to vote, and if the evidence against them is clear, they will at once be sent to Governor's Island as soldiers of the Government. In the Sixth Ward, John Parsons, James Gibson, Augustus Campbell, and John Templar; in the Ninth Precinct, Martin O'Conner and Francis McCann were arrested for the same offence; in the Seventeenth Ward, Frederick Hermanson and Wm. Schaffer were arrested for the same reason. Both of the latter had fresh papers with them, exempting them from the draft. The Marshals of the Thirteenth Ward, ascertained in some cases that parties offered to exemption papers on the alien. He was arrested.

In the Second Ward, Gideon S. Hart, a reputed alien, was arrested for the same cause. Andrew Ryan, Wm. E. Fuller and John Fenton were taken by the Fourth Precinct Police, while attempting to vote as exempt aliens. Their papers were also found upon them.

Two policemen were specially detailed to each poll district, by Superintendent Kennedy, for the purpose of marking all those who attempted to vote after having sworn that they were aliens before the Draft Commissioners, for the purpose of avoiding military service. For this purpose each officer was provided with a list of the names of all those who were known to have taken the exemption oath, but who have been in the habit of voting at previous elections. The list is a large one, but at present it is impossible to furnish the names of all to the public.

Assembly Districts.

Up to the hour of our going to press, correct selections from the various headquarters indicate that the following gentlemen have been elected for the Assembly Districts of New-York City:

Cornelius Flynn, First District.
Daniel Lenny, Second District.
George Loutrel, Third District.
Wm. C. Gever, Fourth District.

KINGS COUNTY ELECTION.

The general quiet and good order which prevailed in Brooklyn throughout the day was remarkable, if at all, disturbed in the evening. It is true, the boys burned tar barrels in honor of the successful candidates, and at the Police Headquarters and some other public places citizens assembled to learn the result of the day's contest, but at all these places the best of feeling and good order prevailed. And at the principal hotels, and other public places, there was an entire absence of anything like excitement. All seemed to have done their duty in voting, and they seemed quietly and willingly to acquiesce in the result.

The Congressional contest seemed invested with the greatest degree of interest. That between Humphrey and Ossian was very close, and as the majorities were announced at the Police Headquarters the liveliest interest was excited among the friends of the respective candidates.

The Assembly election is by no means so clear as was at first reported. In the Fifth District Mr. Chas. L. Benedict has been reelected, and in the Sixth District Mr. Samuel T. Maddox is also returned. In the Second District the Unionists have lost an Assemblyman, Mr. R. O. Perrin, a shrewd Tennessean, slipping in while two Brooklyn-born citizens quarreled over the prospective honors.

Seymour's majority for Governor will reach 5,000, perhaps exceed that figure.

The remainder of the Democratic State ticket runs up to Seymour's vote.

Martin Kalbfleisch, Dem., is elected to Congress in the Second District by about 4,000 majority.

Moses F. Odell, Dem., is elected to Congress, in the Third District, by about 500 majority.

The entire Democratic City and County tickets are elected. The following are the names:

District-Attorney—Samuel B. Morris.
County Treasurer—Thos. A. Gardiner.
Surrogate—Roswell C. Brainard.
Coroner—John Barrett.
Superintendents of Poor—James Fitzgerald, Wm. Bennett.
Justices Sessions—Wm. H. Hoyt, Rep., John A. Emmons, Dem.
Tax Commissioner—Hugh O'Rorke.
Collector of Taxes—Edmund Driggs.
Comptroller—Thomas H. Faron.
Auditor—James Lynch.
City Treasurer—Nahum B. Morse.
The following Assemblymen are probably elected:
First District—John Spaulding, Democrat.
Second District—E. C. Perrin, Democrat.
Third District—Samuel Johnson, Democrat.
Fifth District—Charles L. Benedict, Republican.
Sixth District—Samuel T. Maddox, Republican.
Seventh District—Charles P. Leslie, Democrat.

Later returns show that the majority for Seymour is 6,344 in Kings County—the Third District of the Ninth Ward lacking, which will increase the majority about 150.

The Democrats have carried both Congressmen, five out of seven Assemblymen—(two districts in doubt) the entire City and County tickets, and a majority of the Board of Aldermen.

THE MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.

Governor Andrew Re-elected by a Heavy Majority.

BOSTON, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

The vote in Boston for Governor foots up 6,010 for Andrew and 7,076 for Devens.

Returns from 132 towns give Andrew 48,822, Devens 29,014—Andrew's majority in the State will reach 23,000. The returns so far leave little doubt of the election of nine Republicans to Congress. The Legislature will be strongly Republican.

THE ILLINOIS ELECTION.

CHICAGO, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

The election passed off quietly. The vote polled is large. Reported majorities from all the Wards give Arnold, Republican, for Congress, 340 majority, and the District probably from 1,500 to 1,600. Returns from the State are very meagre, giving no indication as to the result. Springfield City gives Schwarz, Democrat, for Congress, 413 majority; Allen, Democrat, candidate at large, 200. Kankakee County gives Norton, Republican, for Congress, 1,000 majority. Galena gives 300 Democratic majority. Returns from 70 towns give Isenbergh, Republican, 3,300 majority.

THE WISCONSIN ELECTION.

MILWAUKEE, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

The State is hotly contested by both parties. The County of Milwaukee will give Brown (Dem.) 4,700 majority over John F. Potter (Rep.) Kenosha County probably 400 for Potter. Seven towns in Walworth County give Potter some 600 majority. The friends of Brown claim his election without doubt, but the Republicans think the returns from the balance of the District and the soldiers' vote may elect Potter.

THE MISSOURI ELECTION.

ST. LOUIS MO., Tuesday, Nov. 4.

The election here to-day passed off very quietly. The returns of the City are still incomplete and nothing definite can be ascertained. The vote of the Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, and Tenth Wards stands Blair 1,600; Knox Republican 1,054; Rees Democrat 931.

THE MICHIGAN ELECTION.

DETROIT, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Scattering returns indicate the election of the whole Republican State ticket, by a majority of probably fifty thousand.

THE DELAWARE ELECTION.

WILMINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Wilmington gives 500 Union majority.
Pencader gives 50 Democratic majority.
Brandywine gives 170 Union majority.
Christiana gives 300 Union majority.

They are at the Astor House to-day, and are under the charge of Capt. Pepper, of the Staff of Gen. Butler.

OUR NEW-ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE.

Gen. Weitzel's Expedition at Donaldsonville—Its Probable Further Destination.

WEST GEN. WEITZEL'S DIVISION,
DONALDSONVILLE, LA., Monday, Oct. 27, 1862.

On Friday Gen. Weitzel's reserve Brigade left Carrollton, above New-Orleans, making a most picturesque appearance as the fleet got with warlike way, followed by the gunboating transports, and the gunboats looking gunboats. Gen. Weitzel and staff, together with the Thirteenth Connecticut, were on board of the steamer Gen. Williams, in the centre of the line. Proceeding slowly at first, but soon with increasing speed, the command, after getting fairly to sleep, were unexpectedly aroused by the announcement, at 4½ o'clock in the morning, that the fleet had arrived within six miles of Donaldsonville, where the disembarkation immediately commenced; but the men having been obliged to haul the articles up the steep bank, it was full sunrise before the line was formed. While we were disembarking from on board the Gen. Williams, an intelligent contraband came on board of the steamer, and gave some valuable information. He stated that on the night of the dust his master had taken a horse and gone to town to join the guerrillas. The plantation was seized, and the mules and carts, with a carriage, were appropriated for transportation.

The line was soon formed, and commenced its march up the river bank, being very much admired by stragglers along the route, more remarkable for the various shades from white to deep black than any thing else. When reaching within a mile of Donaldsonville, we came to the remains of a battery; a contraband informed us that the guns had been removed to a fortification back on Bayou Lafourche. Here our Louisiana cavalry made a dash upon the rebel pickets, which were by this time in sight; one of them was killed and two were taken prisoners; one of our own men was wounded slightly in the face. On our arrival in town, without further opposition, we found it in ruins and deserted, having been some time previously torn to pieces by our gunboats. The negroes that came to us, however, in the most grotesque and joyous manner, showed by their action how the rebels skedaddled at our approach.

The wind by this time commenced blowing strongly, and as everything forboded rain, we were ordered to find shelter as best we could. I took possession of the only house standing in the vicinity, and was soon blessed with a good fire, after a hearty supper of field chicken, and other comfortable "fixins." Gen. Weitzel issued stern orders against "foraging." Meanwhile, the cavalry took a turn inland after the guerrillas, and succeeded in capturing a hundred splendid horses, many handsomely caparisoned. We hear that the enemy is in large force in the fortification down the bayou, and we shall in the morning march against the enemy, leaving the cavalry to take care of the town. I think from what I can learn that Berwick's Bay is our place of destination, on look out, Gov. Moore. HOPEFUL.

FROM PORT ROYAL.

Arrival of the Prize Steamer Anglia.

Death of Gen. Mitchel From Yellow Fever.

The English steamer Anglia, of Liverpool, under command of Lieut. Chas. C. Carpenter, a prize to the United States steamer Flag and United States bark Restless, arrived at this port yesterday, and anchored off the Navy-yard.

By the Anglia we have received intelligence of the demise of Gen. Mitchel, who died at Beaufort, S. C., on the 30th ult., of yellow-fever. There were also many other cases of that fatal disease.

The Anglia was captured on the 20th ult., about four miles inside of Bull Bay, by boats from the U. S. steamer Flag, under command of Lieut.-Commandant Chas. C. Carpenter, and Lieut.-Commanding Edward Conner, of bark Restless. She was from Nassau, with a cargo of arms, ammunition and other contraband goods, and was attempting to run the blockade. The Captain and crew of the Anglia were all on board, excepting a few who had taken a boat with the pilot to Charleston for assistance. As the steamer had but little coal on board, she was taken to Port Royal, received a supply of coal, and left that port on the morning of the 1st inst., bringing her Captain, two engineers and thirteen of her crew; the remainder were sent North in the Florida, which steamer started for this port with the Anglia.

The Anglia is an iron steamer, was built to carry the mail between Holyhead and Dublin, and is considered very fast.

List of officers in charge of the prize: Lieutenant

Commanding, Geo. C. Cannaday; Acting Master, Chas. Parker; Acting Ensign, Wm. Hoyt.

The prize crew, during the passage, behaved well, the best, however, on the part of the officers, who were to meet North. The engine room crew are for their conduct, and have very valuable support on board consisting of wine, porter, &c.
